Students • Graduates • Early Career Professionals

WHY COMPETE?

Gain the attention of future employers

Work below the surface on real-world challenges

Fine tune your problem-solving and analytical skills

Represent your university, institution or company—and your country

Capitalize on global networking opportunities

Actively engage with global leaders and changemakers

Earn the prestigious title: World Champions

Join us in Almería, Spain for the IFAMA 2024 World Conference which brings together hundreds of primary sector leaders and changemakers from around the world. Since 2005, IFAMA's Student Case Competition has established itself as the leading global championship delivering an unparalleled experience for students, graduates and early career professionals who are pursuing careers in food and agribusiness. Competing teams have four hours to analyze a complex case study based upon a current real-world problem impacting the food and ag sector. The competition challenges teams to develop a creative, practical, and strategic solution to the case, and then present their analyses and recommendations before a panel of judges. This competition provides a rare experience to develop and showcase emerging talent.
